

2 U.S. National Parks to Visit in the East This Fall + Nearby Luxe Hotels

Out of the USA's 63 national parks, there are two in particular out east that not only offer beautiful landscapes, but also charming boutique hotels nearby that are HAP-worthy with a mix of Mother Nature. Lucky for those living in or traveling to these areas, though, they're both spectacular, and vastly different. Travel writer Kelsey Ogletree shares what to see in both Acadia National Park and Shenandoah National Park, along with where to rest your head at night.

Keswick Hall:

This historic property an hour east of the park, in Charlottesville, revealed a new look this summer that includes an impressive tennis facility, infinity pool, and new restaurant from chef Jean-Georges.
